

Stories on the Trail

Wherever animals go they can leave signs that they were there. Those signs can be tracks, scat (this is the scientific name for what is left after an animal goes to the bathroom) or the remains of a meal.

ACTIVITY: Match the track to the animal. Then find the animal in the museum and write down the scientific name.

Take a journal with you on a hike. Bring along a ruler and pencil. When you encounter animal sign, write down where you found it, a description and measure it. Once you are back home try to find out what animal left that sign.