The District shall maintain a community education program of not-for-credit, fee-based classes offered in addition to the college's instructional program. Classes and activities offered through in this program include, but are not limited to: classes in civic, occupational, literacy, health, family and consumer sciences and technical education. These may include a variety of topics in business, computers, creative arts, health and fitness, home and garden, language and writing, music and drama, personal growth, trips, and travel, as well as sports camps, and guided tours.

The community education program shall be designed to contribute to the physical, mental, moral, economic, or civic development of the individuals or groups enrolled in it.

Community education classes shall be open for admission of adults and minors who can benefit from the programs.

No General Fund monies may be expended to establish or maintain community education classes. Students involved in community educational classes shall be charged a fee not to exceed the cost of maintaining the classes. Courses may also be offered for remuneration by contract or with contributions or donations of individuals or groups.

See Administrative Procedure 4400.
